

Make the cool choice now for cool summer bill credit

Earn a $7 credit on your July, August, and September bills this summer. How?

By participating in A/C Cool Credit, you will join thousands of Idaho Power customers who are earning bill credits while reducing demand on the electrical system.

What is A/C Cool Credit? When you sign up for this free program, a radio-controlled switch will be mounted near your a/c unit. When energy demand is high, the device receives a signal to cycle your a/c off for a few minutes each half hour - usually between 3 and 7 p.m. - once the demand is reduced, the device stops cycling and your a/c unit returns to its normal operation.

Will my house get too warm? Customer comfort is our priority. Program testing over the past three years shows that most participants notice little or no difference in temperature, typically one to three degrees over the cycling period.
